THE FULL 360

Romo's bestselling Linara fabric is now available in 360 spectacular shades: pimped up primary colours for maximalists, dark hues for dramatists and every shade of beige, grey and parchment for pared back living. The cotton-linen blend is soft and supple, and will hold its colour in a 30-degree wash. £37.50 p/m. romo.com

VERMILLION CITY

It takes years of practice to perfect the razor-thin slices of Japanese marquetry. Linwood has cut out the trouble with its new Bangkok Nights wallpaper, which takes note from palm wood cuttings, so you can do a cut and paste job. Available in four colourways, Vermillion is the star of the show. £120 per roll. linwoodfabric.com

LAY OF THE LAND

Ellie Williams' fabrics forge a new connection between landscape and art. The textile designer is the Daylesford Estate's artist-in-residence this summer after winning Bamford's From Land to Craft competition. Each piece is hand-dyed using Japanese Shibori techniques and natural dyes made from avocado skins, turmeric and red onion. See them at Bamford barn during the Harvest Festival on 23 September. FAMILY BUSINESS

Yorkshire lads Matthew and Andrew Galvin specialise in contemporary furniture made in the traditional way, with minimum impact on the environment and maximum impact on your design credentials.

The Galvin Brothers' first collection of tables and stools for The White Company are hewn from sustainably sourced English ash felled on the Brocklesby Estate in Lincolnshire. From £275. thewhitecompany.com

WASHING YOUR SMALLS

Chic French family concept shop Smallable has launched its first linen collection, and it's très jolie. Made by fledgling Parisian brand Communauté de Biens, it elevates the simplicity of natural fibres in tones that manage at once to be vibrant and faded: think rustic linens in antique pinks, stonewashed greys and muted mustards. Towels, from £6. en.smallable.com
